

Rosie, Charlie, and the Little Lost Paw

Created with AI Children's Book Creator by Shane Connelly

Charlie and Rosie were walking home along Maple Lane.
Then Charlie heard a tiny sound: "Mew?"

They looked under the bench and beside the red mailbox.
A little gray kitten blinked from behind the recycling bin.

“Hello,” Rosie whispered. “Are you lost?”
Charlie placed his backpack on the ground and sat very still.

Button's tummy rumbled.
Charlie found a clean bottle of water in his backpack, and Rosie found a plain cracker in her lunch bag.

Button crept closer, one paw at a time.
Rosie smiled. "We can help, but we need a grown-up."

Rosie called Aunt Maya, who helped animals in the neighborhood.
“Stay nearby,” Aunt Maya said. “I’ll come with a carrier.”

While they waited, Charlie made a little sign from a paper bag.
He wrote: FOUND KITTEN. PLEASE ASK A GROWN-UP.

Aunt Maya arrived with a red carrier and a soft towel.
She moved slowly and let Button sniff her hand first.

Button stepped into the towel-lined carrier.
“Brave little paws,” Charlie said.
Rosie carried the found-kitten sign beside Aunt Maya.

They walked to Paws and Whiskers Rescue Room.
Aunt Maya checked Button gently and removed the loose thread collar.

Aunt Maya looked for a tiny mark in her animal records.
“No one has reported Button missing,” she said.
“We will keep looking.”

Button rested in a clean cat bed by the sunny window.
Charlie and Rosie made a new sign: FOUND KITTEN. SAFE AT PAWS AND WHISKERS.

The next morning, a family came to ask about a missing gray kitten.
Their kitten had a white chin and one white paw.
“That sounds like Button!” Rosie said.

The kitten's name really was Button!
The family thanked Charlie and Rosie for stopping, staying safe, and asking for help.

On the walk home, Charlie and Rosie passed their little sign on to Aunt Maya.
“For the next lost pet,” Charlie said.
Rosie nodded. “Kindness needs a team.”

The End

Like this book? Generative AI costs a lot to run. Buy me a coffee to support Shane Connelly and help keep this project online.